TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 28, 1855.

53" Since the Rev. Mr. Watson resigned the Rectorship of Zion Church, the pulpit has been supplied, for a large portion of the time, by the Rev. James C. Richmond, of Providence. We have never had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Richmond preach, but we learn from those who are excellent judges in such matters that he is an earn est, truthful and pleasing sermonizer. We know him well by reputation; he has a strong and highly cultivated mind, is an original thinker, and has traveled extensively in all parts of the world. As a pastor he is faithful and affectionate, and as a clergyman his position is an enviable one. We know that he is very popular with a large portion of the congregation of Zlon Church, and gives better satisfaction, as a general thing, than any one who has officiated there-since Mr. Watson left. There less been a report in circulation that Mr. Richmond would not accept a call from the Parish, if tendered, as he did not wish to locate : we know, from unquestionable authority, that no one has been authorized to make such an assertion. We trust that Mr. Richmond will be called to the Rectorship of this church, for we are satisfied that they cannot find any one who will give more general satisfaction ; and it called, we hope that he will accept.

We are indebted to Professor A. D. Backe, Superintendent of the U.S. Coast Survey, for a copy of the Report of the Superintendent of the Coast Survey, showing the progress of the Survey during the year 1854. It is avery interesting work.

THE OLD HOMESTRAD, By Mrs. Ann B. Stephens, author of "Fashion and Fam-New York: Bunce & Brother. ina." 1855.

A new book by the author of "Fashion and Famine," which attained in three nonths's circulation of roat? THOUSAND ortes, and which was republished in Luiric. Vienna, St. Peterabung, and in sovral rivat editions in London, is a matter eserving of special notice.

The Old Homes end will be generally inceded, we think, a better book than ashion and Famine. Whether a producon of greater talent, may be questioned, ut that it will please more, and be better ked, we cannot doubt. It is not so tracic nd intense in its character; it is ealivened nd relieved by many more of renial and umorous scenes; the story, while proandly interesting, and at times stirring ie render to his hearts innermost depths. oe not turn upon incidents of so painful a ature, and we are shocked, moreover, by he contemplation of a depravity so devilshan that portrayed in the character of eicester.

It is not till the latter half of the book hat no are introduced to the Old Hometend, vituated among the Catskill hills of he Hudson, and from this point, which we onfess we like better than the earlier porion, we are carried along by a narrative hat by turns is absorbing and hamprous, fording us scenes, descriptions, characters, and incidents, the equals of which we cannot recall. In these scenes the authores a displays a humor that rivals Dickens, and a dramatic power of which she is poculiarly the marter. Uncle Nathan, and Hannah and Salina Bowler, are characters that will become immortal in the world of fiction.

The first portion of the book is laid in New York, and here we have many acenes of pathos, suffering, and tragic power. But as the book progresses the clouds disperse, the sun breaks out, and the story end. in a blaze of light and hapidness.

The book is beautifully printed, and will have an immense sale.

COWRIDING A RAILROAD PRESIDENT. The Boston Herald relates the particulars of an exciting scene which occurred Monday evening at Hingham. It appears that for some time a difficulty has existed between William Humphrey, President of the South Shore Railroad, and Alfred Hersey, ex-President of the road, in regard to some remarks made by Mr. Hersey some time since, on seeing Mr. Humphrey stumble and fall in getting out of the care. Those remarks reflected upon the personal habits and character of Mr. Humphrey, and he was much inconsed on hearing of them,-He demanded a written retraction of the olfensive remarks, and yesterday arming himself with a cowhide and a brace of pistols, proceeded to Hinglam to force compliance with his demand, which was peremptorily refused. He thereupon drew his pistols and offered to fight Mr. Hersey who declined. The parties separated but subsequently met again at the railroad de pot. After making some remark to Hum phrey, Hersey seized the cowhide which he carried, and proceeded to lay it over the head and ears of Humphrey with much energy, the blood following each blow. No one interfered and Mr. Humphrey was se-

THE CELEBRATED MRS. MARTHA BRAD-TREET IN COURT .- Old residents will: remember the celebrated Bradstreet claim trial in this city in 1833—celebrated for the amount of property involved (50 acres on the West side of Genesce atreet, Utica, and valued at $500,000)—the great array of talent on each side (Daniel Webster being retained by the prosecutrix)—the fact that Mrs. Bradstreet argued her own cause before the court and jury, and in such a masterly manner as to astound everybody, drawing from John Van Buren the assertion that she (Mrs. Bradstreet) was the best real estate lawyer he ever knew or read of -celebrated for the fact that the jury ate cheese which poisoned them and led to their being discharged at 3 o'clock in the morning, the judge believing that it was cholers, and fearful that it might become epidemic, he dissolved the court-and celebrated for the pertinacity with which Mrs. B. has since prosecuted her claim.

Mrs. Bradstreet, who is now quite 70 years of age, with hair as white as snowtlakes, but with a step as firm and vigorous as some ledies of 30, yesterday appeared in the United States Court, attired in modern habiliments with a natty white bat surmounted with an elegant white plume, three feet in length, and made a motion for the continuance of her suit (or something to that effect) expressing her determination to contest her claims in 1856.

Mrs. Bradstreet is confessedly one of the mest remarkable females of this country-But few lawyers are as well read in real estate matters as she, and certainly none have the assiduity and indomitable perseverance which she has exhibited during the last 25 years, in prosecuting her claims against parties now occupying property in Utica, which she asserts rightfully belongs

THE SUBLIMITY OF IMPUDENCE.—Cool impudence sometimes reaches a point when we may be paidoned for dignifying the quality as sublime. Accomplished rouges occasionlaly furnish us with the moremarkable illustrations of the extreme to which impudence may go. A few weeks since, a German, of genteel address, went to a livery stable at Broad and William street and hired a horse and carriage for a drive. He gave the name of Eugene Tybalt --Having obtained the animal and the vehicle, Tybalt left, and soon afterwards exchanged them for a valuable gold watch and a considerable aum of money. The watch was then pledged at a pawnbroker's and eighteen dollars obtained upon it. A few days since, the owners of the horse and vehicle received a note stating that the horse had run away, the earriage had been dashed to pieces, and Tybalt so badly injured that he had been confined to his bed ever since. The note suggested that a reward had better be offered for the recovery of the horse. Tybalt next wrote to the man who had bought the horse and carriage from him, telling him that he had bet tar return them, as they were wanted, and if they were retained, trouble might arise. As for the watch, the note said, "it would be as well to let that matter rest." Yesterday this consumnate rogue was arrested -Phil. N. American.

A LUNATIC DOCTOR SETTING A BROKEN Апм.—Recently, while one of the patients of the State Lunatic Asylum, who was formerly a doctor, was taking his accustomed stroll for air and exercise, he was attraced to a house not far from the Asylum by the cries of a young girl, who, in climbing over a fence, had fellen and brok en her arm. On entering the door he ascertained that the poor, decrepid, bed-ridden mother and the unfortunate girl, whose labor was the only support of the two, were the only occupants. A boy had been sent for and was then absent in quest of a physician or surgeon. The doctor could not witness the young girl's distress, so he instantly went to work and set and splintered the broken limb. The old lady, with tears of joy and gratitude, exclaimed, "Doctor, what's to pay?" "Oh! nothing," he replied, "I am amply repaid in the satisfaction this apportunity has afforded me to relive your daughter's distress." " hank you, dear doctor, and God bless you! But when the doctor we have sent for arrives, who shall we say set the arm-what name and residence, doctor?" "Tell him, said our doctor. "that a patient from the New York State Lunntic Asylum did it."-Utica Telegraph.

A FAST Gint .- There is a "last girl," named Mary Brown, in the jail at Utica, New York. A few nights ago she attempt ed to escape by cutting a large hole in the wall, but was discovered in time to secure her in closer quartors. Not long since it is said, she shortened her hair, donned male apparel, and was accepted as a soldier by he recruiting officer recently stationed a She remained with the soldiers for weeks before her sex was discover-Rome. ed. She is about twenty years of age, and is confined for largeny. She has been removed to the Utica jail on account of breaking out of juil at Rome, from which she has twice escaped and been re-captured.

COMMANDER HARTSTEIN. - The following complimentary letter was addressed to Commander Hartstein, of the expedition sent in search of Dr. Kane and his westy by the Secretary of the Navy

NAVY DEPARTMENT, Oct. 13, 1855. Sin:-I have just received your communication of the 11th inst., informing me of the safe return of your party, accompanied by Dr. Kane and his party. The despatches enclosed with the communication have been perused with much interest .--You have discharged the arduous duty for which you so nobly volunteered, with fidelity, skill and indomitable energy. Your brother officers, who feel a pride in the service, will hail your success with generous applause, and your countrymen will join in the admiration of this display of self-sacrificing courage. The promptness with which you; slier a few days' notice, embarked in this philanthropic adventure, is only known to the Department. And now, after the tapse of less than five months, you have penetrated further into the danger ous regions of the Arctic than any naviga tor, (save only Dr. Kane himself,) triumphing over the shocks of icebergs and the dangers of that inhospitable part of the plobe, and you now return, having accomplished what you undertook. Be pleased to accept yourself, and present to those who were your companions my sincere congratulations and thanks for this successful effort in the cause of humanity.

I am, very respectfullly.

Your obedient servant, J. C. Dobbin.

The Lightning Conductors on the plan of J. Spratt, of Cincinnati, appear to be very well devised, and in point of mechanical construction, are the best I have ever scene.

It is to be hoped that the use of these rods may become general as an important nuxiliary defence against a danger which must be regarded as all no ordusers magnitude, to which all gainst a danger which must be regard-no ordinary magnitude, to which all are liable

This will certify that I have examined the Lightning Rods, Metallic Points, and Insulating Attachments, anomactured by Mr. Spratt, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and regard them as constructed in conformity to the general laws of the sectric fluid; and the Gilded Copper Branched Points, as promising, from the results of several tests to which they were submitted, to resist for years the action of those atmospheric causes most likely to corrole them.
